STARTING FROM SCRATCH—Ground was broken last week for the Women's Powder Room as shown by the picture on the left. The I Am Speedy Construction Co. were two days behind schedule, so dedication ceremonies will be tomorrow. The Building is pictured on the right that will accommodate the rapidly expanding females.

Names Out; Expansion Program at Brigham Young Produces New Powder Puff Palace; 'Bigger and Better' School Promised

"Brigham Young University—the greatest in the world—must be run with system!" declared President Wilkinson last Monday. Petitions signed by 10,000 students and faculty pleading for the renaming of the Physical Science building, the Student Service center, and the fieldhouse, have been received by the administration.

The president now sees the need of eliminating such confusing initials as PS, SS, SC, SSC, etc., and has issued this further statement: "We will give each building a number so students can find them in their remote corners throughout Provo."

With the help of Dr. Bussel E. Twensen of the history and political science department and Hasmal M. Bennett of the zoology and the entomology department, Pres. Wilkinson authorized the following procedure to be followed hereafter and forever:

1. Each building will be given a different number.
2. Each floor will be given a letter of the alphabet beginning with A and ending with Z. The classification will begin with the lowest basement and proceed to the highest attic.

BYU will continue to grow "Bigger and Better."

This is the opinion of Brigham Young University's building committee, who pointed this week with obvious pride to tremendous strides recently taken in the expanding facilities of this "fastest growing university in the nation."

Concrete evidence of startling growth took shape this week with the completion of the multi-storied women's powder room. This imposing edifice will be dedicated tomorrow with appropriate ceremonies, with President Wilkinson being presented with a blue and white powder puff.

Mating Authority Monday Speaker

Next Monday's forum speaker will be the imminent, world-renowned authority on the mating and dating habits of the beatus campus dormus, Dr. B. Elden Peck.

Dr. Peck is culminating his 30th year of intensive research in this field. Years ago he wrote and published a 6,497 page volume of the results of his research.

"Dr. Peck has devoted 32 years of his life to our beloved university, stated an administrative spokesman. "Dr. Peck is one of our most valuable assistant instructors," he added.

His assigned topic is "both by pin manufacturers."

Purge Topples Studentbody; 'Cell' Revealed

LeRoyki Portovitski, student body president of BYU, was violently purged today following a shocking report by the student investigating committee.

The Brigham Young University campus reeled under the stunning revelation that student government at the Y is polluted, corrupted, uncondemned, unprincipled, knavish, scampish, rascally and a little plinkish, too. (For further references see Roget's Thesaurus, 940-8.)

The student government investigating committee, headed by J. Strongheart Pickleson, reported that the whole executive council is nothing but a socialist cell. LeRoyki Portovitski, chief socializer, as he is known to inner party members, was accused of promoting "inner parties," which in the words of Predoy Moneymakeoff, chief party embezzler and elected business manager of the school, were "real carkers."

Under the stern accusations of the committee, however, some of the members of the party broke and confessed that the methods employed by Portovitski in his ruthless climb to the top made even hardened socializers blanch. It was reported that the party chief broke his health in a vain attempt to recruit every girl on campus for "inner parties."

The purge will continue, emphasized J. Strongheart, until full confessions are obtained from Moneymakeoff, Oleoskov Smithovitch, and Bobow Holman.

Meanwhile, searching continues for five workmen who were overwhelmed in the tumultuous erection of the building and are lost somewhere between the 10th and 14th floors.

In a personal interview, U. H. Bloquande, sub-assistant vice-chairman, pro tem of the building committee, also disclosed imminent activity of the "Grow or Bust" campaign by the university for the next 29 years.

"We have also given considerable consideration," he said, "to the installation of elevators in dorms, escalators in buildings, and chair lifts on hills to combat chronic complaints that BYU girls acquire poolable (you'll pardon the expression) legs. We find this to be an uphill undertaking."

"It would seem perversity dogs our efforts to expand," he continued. "The recent governor's twis (sob) of the eminent domain bill has resulted in our abandoning plans to acquire residences of the community for housing purposes."

"Meanwhile, housing facilities are being erected on quite a scenic spot on Y mountain in the immediate vicinity of the Y. The precipitous incline will be popituous to students arriving on time for early classes," he went on. When questioned about the inevitable return trip, he shrugged and muttered, "Details."

Another available area includes a quaint region located about one quartle mile offshore in Utah Lake. "There will be no turning water problem. The picturesqueness of this proposed edifice car-

PURGED—Skeon Clousen points out the gun that apparently purged a recent member of the Y studentbody in the recent putch by the committee on governmental reorganization. Admirer Mr. Clousen are investigators.

Female Whisker Grower Enters Stubble Contest

Gypsy Rose, nationally-known figure, announced yesterday that she was tossing her name and a few other things into the ring as a candidate in the Arizona Days beard-growing contest.

"I can put it on with the best of them," she told a correspondent of one of the west's major newspapers.

A private showing was made at the same time to a selected group of committee members.

Grooming for swapeaks prize, Miss Rose stated that she was stripping for action and getting into "fine shape" for the competition, which is slated for April 18.

"There's no telling how far a thing like this might go," one member of the Arizona Day committee said nervously when he heard of Miss Rose's action. Other students, male and female, reported a renewed interest in the contest "I'm just doing it to see if I can," she was reported to have said.

School officials were saying nothing, but lights burned most of the night in the Mueser building.

Arizona Lass Awarded Ph.D. By Extension

History was made at Brigham Young University this week with the announcement of the first Ph.D. degree ever to be awarded by the Extension Division.

The degree will be awarded at commencement exercises in June to Miss Hepzibah Prunella Pinfeather of Sombrero Gulch, Ariz. In announcing the award, Dr. Gerald Hen Bark, extension director, said, "We are very happy to have Miss Pinfeather as the winner of our first Extension Division Ph.D. For her it will mark the culmination of 35 years of hard work in night school and home study classes."

The subject of Miss Pinfeather's dissertation is "The Taxonomy and Agronomy of the Life, Loves, and Mating Habits of the Genus Mammalius Sporadicus in East Water Hole County, Arizona."

When informed that her dissertation had been accepted for the degree, Miss Pinfeather's first comment was a fearful, "I can't believe it! I'm speechless!" After 35 years of turning down dates to stay home and study of burning the midnight oil of solitary field trips out into the desert to study the Genus Mammalius Sporadicus at all hours of the day and night and in all seasons of the year—spending weeks at a time in the desert with only my little burro and the Genus Mammalius Sporadicus for company—at last I've got my Ph.D. But I don't begrudge any of the privations I've endured. It will all be made up when I get my diploma in June."

Queried as to future plans now that college is over for her, Miss Pinfeather emphatically declared, "Education never comes to a standstill and one's college days should never end. I'm following the example of my ideal Dr. Dew Scribbly, and going on and on and on."

Dr. Bark announced that Miss Pinfeather has already registered for the next season of night school with the Extension Division and added that, inspired by Miss Pinfeather's courageous, unyielding efforts in obtaining her degree, 7,000 more persons have enrolled with the division.

FACULTY FIESTA — Four-handed Dean Lloyd P. Wesley provides fiery entertainment at regular faculty club brawl in old library building. New library facilities have been moved to Northeast orchard. Radical change will cleanse Lou Hill's of Faculty.

Top Entertainment . . .

Faculty Funfest Leaves Hill's for Grant Library

Relatives of Heber J. Grant will be saddened to learn that the Heber J. Grant library has been turned into a faculty-fun club.

This move came as a result of construction of a new library in the northeast orchard. The new library follows the California ranch style architectural design, rambling over an area of 40 acres.

Space has been provided in the new library for dancing, ping pong, and bowling, as well as a modern 50 seat motion picture theater. Some books will be stored in the basement.

According to Miss Hayomi Poor, head librarian, stack privileges have been extended to all students, including those from Farrer Junior High school.

The new faculty-fun club in the old Heber J. Grant building will take the place of the former faculty club, which met at Lou Hill's.

Dean Lloyd P. Wesley, who is in charge of entertainment for all faculty parties and banquets, took the spotlight at the first faculty party in their new headquarters. He led a group of entertainers, which included Linton Clarson, Growberg Stu, Katrina Pardon, Porky Hillier, and Marcus Pallen.

Campaign of Love Towards Campus Started In Provo

Provo's mayor, W. C. Dove, added a ray of hope to improved Brigham Young University-Provo relationships with a startling statement this morning.

Mayor Dove stated, "From now on we folks here in Provo are going to treat students like they was human. It may be hard at first, but we're sure goin' to try are darndest."

Some of the new policies being affected effect the Police Department. Students will be allowed to run stop signs, park where they double line, weave in and out of traffic, speed without fear of penalty, but the Police Chief said that parking meter fines have been raised to $10—just to show students that the police still have a little authority.

Provo merchants are also going to cooperate in the new love campaign. As of today, parking tags have been upped to $1.50 per hour, with overtime being paid after the first hour and one-half. Plans have also been formulated for the building of a student center on University and Center, as soon as the City Hall is torn down.

This recreation center will provide students working in the downtown area with a place to go during their 15-minute break every hour.

A limousine service for the transportation of student help and from work has also been taken under advisement by the Provo Chamber of Commerce.

Diggers Discover Devastating Data

A discovery that may shake the foundations of modern, scientific digging was made this week by Jels Makeman and Crois Tee Christy of the BYU archaeology department.

After two hours of intensive work with the gleeper counter, another few hours with a diving rod, and some mighty spadework by boys from buildings and grounds, the two archaeologists came up with the amazing find. Excavation took place in the office of Dr. Thomas L. Martin.

Instructors Discover Wages Cut

Faculty members received a bit of a jolt Monday at faculty meeting when Pres. E. L. Pilkington announced a reduction of all faculty member's salaries, retroactive to Sept. 1, 1962.

With the recent expansion in new buildings and student services there has to be a cut some places. Since the faculty has had it so soft for all these many years, they are the logical ones to take the cut," he explained.

In the lively debate which ensued (see picture) Dr. Persley A. Christensen pointed out to his colleagues that, "Ours is not to reason why, ours is just to do it." Dr. T. Earl Sourdough delivered a stinging oration in favor of the resolution. But Prof. Milton Souleau only sobbed nobly, "Ours is but a pall of blood, toil and tears."

Having no choice in the matter, the faculty voted unanimously.

SPIRITED DEBATORS—Faculty members at Brigham Young were agitated at administration proposals to cut all salaries, due to expansion of the university. Despite almost historical debate and stirring oratory, the measure was imposed. Exclusive picture captures excitement of the special faculty meet called to debate the proposed cut.

Date Session Held Behind Closed Doors

In utter seclusion behind the doors of President Pilkington's office, designated members of the faculty met on April 1 to discuss a pertinent problem.

Prof. Symon of the sociology department had noticed recently that the men and women attending BYU have steadily lost interest in each other to the extent that no one dates or even attends dances any more. He suggested to President Pilkington that an urgent meeting be held for members of the psychology, sociology, and religious departments to discuss the matter.

Professor Callie, also of the sociology department, stated, "A society in order to function properly, efficiently, and productively must have men and women who are interested in each other. Something must be done immediately."

Dr. Merry, head of the department of religion, extremely concerned about the situation, made various declarations in all seriousness about the importance of marrying and multiplying and replenishing the earth.

After several hours of debating, water-drinking, and head-scratching, the men arrived at a decision. They decided to sacrifice prizes as incentives for boy-girl interests.

To the first boy or girl to smile at a member of the opposite sex, they will give a lovely, unused Bible. To a boy who will open a door for a girl, they will present a certificate which will allow him to park in the faculty zone.

A boy or girl seen holding hands will each be awarded beautiful kid-skin gloves by President Pilkington personally.

Professor Souleau will give "A's" in psychology to any couple who will admit having kissed.

To a pinned couple will go a set of "The World Book Encyclopedia" and to an engaged couple will go a genuine diamond with a 1960 cook book thrown in for an extra.

Outdated Honor Code Replaced By 'No Test' Schmonor Code

Thomas A. Schmonor disclosed this week introduction of a new code of conduct for the Brigham Young University student body, which will supersede and eventually replace the outmoded, inadequate honor code now in effect.

Briefly, the underlying principle of the Schmonor Code, as outlined by Schmonor himself, is as follows:

In order to prevent cheating, the opportunity to cheat is merely removed, and then it becomes impossible to cheat. In other words, instead of removing the effect (as is done under the Honor Code)—one removed the cause which is more effective.

"It will be impossible to cheat under the Schmonor Code," the author emphasized, "because there is nothing anyone can do that will be cheating."

This will involve, he pointed out, only a few minor changes, such as altering all candy machines to accept only pennies; open book tests—or no tests at all; elimination of all personal effects carried or worn by students; repudiation, nationwide prohibition on alcoholic beverages and tobacco; and the condonation of free love.

"We expect little trouble in innovating the Schmonor Code," Mr. Schmonor concluded, "for many students have already adopted the attitude of 'Honor Code—Schmonor Code'."

he who hesitates sleeps in the station

Does a Stuart Sophomore named Herman trouble a Big City for a Big Weekend. So did thousands of other People. (Big convention is now.) Thus, writing at the head of his Choir, Herman found a Line awaiting from here to there up to the Room Clerk. He was dismayed to hear the clerk believe to Number One Man in Line. "Only ten more left," Herman counted the Heads in line. Thirty heads.

Grey walls waiting, one Herman detached himself from the Group and hurried to the Western Union desk across the lobby. "I want to send a Fast Telegram to the moon slink," he said. "Where?" queried the Girl. "That one, right there," said he, pointing. The Girl nodded . . .

Two hours later, introduced by a Larkie Peters, Herman again enabled into the lobby. He moved. Confidently he confronted the Man Behind the Register. "You have a room for me?" he said. "I would stand for a conviction . . ."

A very Nice Room it was, too. Lining up reservations is an easy Trick for Yousters . . . and one they do well. ## IN MEMORIAM

In moments of solemn reflection and soul searching, the mind does strange things. We found ourselves solemnly reflecting the other day and our minds were doing strange things.

We were looking back, in retrospect, over the past year, and our part in it looked dark and lachrymose.

To begin with, we wronged the IOC. For our part in the awful scandals that rocked that boy we ask forgiveness. Val Norn and Cesta Tie, two gentle units that weren't out to do much harm to anybody, were mercilessly scorched by the stenorial, editorial voice—but now we wish it has been otherwise.

The speech department probably regards that as an evil sheet, and no wonder, the way we exposed our reviewer to pun "Antigone" and the ill-fated productions. To them we can only say that the future will be different. Give us another chance.

But our biggest offense of the year was committed against the Junior Prom committee. Shabby publicity and completely indifferent support on our part nearly wrecked a fabulous weekend. Fortunately that came out right in the end.

Another incident that we blush to look back to concerns Mr. McKnight and the bookstore.

We know what we said then; now we say only, Hon soit qui mal y Pense. We apologize also to Marilyn Palmer, who was looking in the bookstore for the pocketbook edition on human anatomy—naturally it wasn't there after the trick we pulled, and she had to pay $3.95 for another edition.

And to those girls who got a cold shoulder from their friends after the flurry on modesty, we bow our heads.

There are more sins that we blush to acknowledge: B Y High and Coach Snow; the press department; President Wilkinson, et al.

Especially cynical was our treatment of blood donors and traffic offenders. Don Van Slooten was possibly hardest hit. He gave his blood plus a parking fine. Of course he's a hero, but not because of us.

Our past is catching up with us now. All missionaries might well look at us with a baleful eye for the irreverence with which they were recently treated.

Well, the list is a long and sordid one. We're not proud of it, but it happened. It's been quite an eventful year so far.

But the UNIVERSE has reformed; just wait and see.

STRICKEN CHICKENS

This is the time of year when we should all think about the Crippled Chickens and contribute to this worthy fund. These poor stricken chickens are afflicted with the dread disease, Poultryitis.

Yes, it's true that there are many Communists or left-wingers among them, notably the Rhode Island Reds and the New Hampshire Reds, but even they have done considerable good to their own and other communities by contributing red feathers to the community chest drives.

Though considerable progress is being made in conquering this fowl disease (poultryitis-mitell-ee-us) still more contributions are need. Just some poultry sum mere chicken feed, would help a great deal in research work. Great work is being accomplished in Chicago and Little Barred Rock. Ark. The Pulitzer Prize is to be awarded to the layman who accomplishes most in this work.

It is thought by many that we should have a type of social club for these sick chickens, a sort of nest egg, and many old hens have been asking for an old eggs pension, but the government is eggstrizing its hen's off policy on these plans.

Remember, your contribution today may help these poor crippled chickens gain chickurinity in their old eggs. Be a rooster for this worthy cause.

Run For Campus Posts

Flash, . . .

According to the latest reports received by this department, Katz Johannbeck will run for studentbody president. If elected the crew-cut campus idol will run the studentbody by remote control from the Stanford campus, where he is being held by the Law School.

Kan Zandisen has entered the race for first vice-president. It was announced today. The popular campus muck-raker has served on a special committee to install a beer hall in the basement of the student service center, but some impartial observers feel that since she installed the bar in the back of her new blue convertible she is driving herself to drink.

Two candidates came out for secretary this week, but when told that they must equal the record left behind by Crinoline Bookends, they blanch and withdrew their names.

IOC's auditing committee, headed by Bob Divett, will investigate the three hundred thousand dollar expenditure of the Piking-Talking-so social unit exchange held last Thursday. Divett stated that, in his opinion, the IOC should never have granted permission to the two units to hold the exchange in Tijuana.

Oan Jovenson, chairman of the central committee on rushing procedures, announced today that new rules have been drawn up prohibiting unit members from talking during rush week. According to Loyde Hake, IOC president, the recommendations will be railroaded through the Council with little trouble, and Andrew (softheart) Souglast, chief justice of penal court, stated that offending unit members will be shot.

Spring Fashions For ROTC Dance

"Voices of Spring" came to life as these charming sprites, in the height of good taste, model the ideal dress for the ROTC formal to be held at Thundercloud Roundup. Note the extreme freedom of movement which can be achieved with the slit skirt to subtly draw attention to athletic extremities.

Nothing could be found to excel this fine fabric of filmy cheese cloth as appropriate for spring formal wear. Reminiscent of songfests days, this textile should suggest an air of high culture as it is associated with that great event.

Of course, shoes will be checked at the door, as these fair muses suggest in their attire. The reason being that the management of the Roundup demands that atmosphere be maintained.

Note the modest, high necklines which, of course, are in accordance with the requisite for modesty which must be met without exception.

Mating And Dating Habits Of Delta Phi Revealed In GOONIVERSE Polling

After intensive study and grate patients, the dating and mating habits of Delta Phi have been determined by adventurous GOONIVERSE staffers.

Since all shemales are fair game, the selection of a single Benatus Campus Dormus comes easy. Provisionally, Delta Phi divides the student directory into several equal portions, a section being assigned to each member for the maintenance of his social operations. You know, "To Each His Own."

After prospects' names are slyly checked with Bunyan pix, the Delta Phi gift to women categorically calls.

"Hello Kate, wants date?"

"Whatcha name?"

"Cy. (Gruffly) ... but I'm Delta Phi."

"Come on, hon."

To further facilitate efficiency in finding rooms, there will be pamphlets at the main doors on how to use each building.

Dr. Banner giggled his approval. "Now this is more classified than the library. Everyone will be proud of our great University now!"

Y Belle Hopeful Paces Race With Two Wins; Tops In Dance, Cooks

Comely Karling Ming lengthened her standing as candidate for Belle of the Y yesterday as she took first place honors for the second time in the series of Y Belle contests.

Yesterday she walked away with honors from the dancing contest held in the social hall, easily outstepping other women in the competition.

Arvel Obbins, one of the dance judges commented he wasn't quite familiar with the dance routine Miss Ming, sophomore student at the Y, used. "It was different," he said, in a brief statement.

Monday, the raven-haired beauty took first place in the beauty contest, winning over 41 other candidates. "It was her face, you know," one judge remarked. "It was the only one that stood up solid." Observers in the remark was essentially correct.

Miss Ming's sweep of both beauty and dancing contests is unique in the history of the Y Belle contest. "It has never been done before," one committee member categorically stated. Total points garnered by Miss Ming, an art appreciation major, equal 91. Closest score to hers is held by Joie Barry.

Next step in the contest, held annually at BYU, will be the talent show, scheduled for tomorrow in College Hall. Speculation concerning the outcome is generally regarded as spirited, although Karling Ming is expected to make a strong showing.

TO GRANT DEGREES—Toro L. "Bull" Slinger, Dean of the Animal Husbandry department, checks over students who will receive their B.S. Degree this year. Dean Slinger, B.S.M.S., and Ph.D., has so many degrees of this type that he has expressed opinion that his talents be spread around.

Round Robin ...

Registration Rigors Reduce Restless Running 'Round

New registration plans will enable an expected 5,000,000 (more or less) students to register this fall in approximately 23 minutes. It was announced today by Dr. Harley Fletcher, originator of the new process.

Main improvement in the new system is a unique thought control device by which even Prof. Milford Soule's psych. 11 classes will be filled. According to Prof. Soule, all students attempting to resist the device will be struck blind.

First step in the new process will be a powerful shock designed to put the students at ease.

Following this process, students will be shuffled by electricity (Dr. Fletcher would not comment on how this would be done, but he did suggest that students wear rubber soles and refrain from holding hands) and dropped down a chute into their first period classes. Pres. Earnest L. Peterson stated that this system should discourage students from going home to California between quarters. In fact, he continued, "It should even discourage them from going home to Oregon."

Students will be able to distinguish the registration building by the statue of Skoon Clouson, who's recruiting has done so much to make the Y the largest institute of higher learning in Utah Valley, not counting American Fork.

Undercover Bookcover Sales Noted

Need the book, "Lurid Lies of Licentious Lassies," for your sociology class? Latest secret reports from the office of Deal MacLight, director of the new 12 billion dollar student bookstore, reveal that the recent purge of obscene books has merely driven the "lurid morals" underground.

Campus males, saddened by the sudden up-rooting of their favorite pinups and after-dinner stories, staged a happiness rally through the bookstore's mile-long self-service movie magazine racks after hearing the comforting news.

According to the reports, all on has to do is write the title of the flamboyant book wanted on a piece of paper with the words, "Attention: Male!" in the upper right hand corner. Tack the note on to the left leg of the homing pigeon provided in the cubbyholes of the new student post office.

Wymount Cafeteria To Be Replaced

In keeping with its current program of expansion, the administration has announced final approval of plans for a new permanent cafeteria. To be located to the east of the present Wymount eating place, the structure will be constructed of yellow brick to match other campus buildings.

Building supervisor Len Pewia, said the project is in answer to the casual request of a Y student. The interior of the new edifice will be finished in a modernistic design with linoleum tile floors and pastel painted walls with indirect lighting.

A new price policy will also go into effect that will provide steak dinners for 35 cents. Miss Helen of Troy Curran, head of the Smith Cafeteria, muttered, "unfair competition," when informed of the price cut.

Reviewer Romps Rampantly; Raves, Rants & Regurgitates

by GOONIVERSE Dance Critic

The dance lyceum last night, described by Dr. Bark, modestly, as one of the most magnificent groups of performers in America, was.

Pichard L. Lope, well-known dance critic, has said that in modern dance one discovers that it is the only art which combines set-up exercises, rhythmic bands, yoga, home economics and a hair-raising. Mr. Lope's assertion has never been challenged, to other art makes these claims.

As the leader of the group, Ricardo Lemon led. Particularly graceful was the scene in which he crawled across the stage on his stomach, tripped his two co-performers with one majestic sweep of his left hand and did a natty tap dance with his knees.

Not to be overlooked was the technique of the feminine lead, Blanche Almond. The power and beauty of her control as she pirouetted about the prostrate form of the hero was lovely. Pity she had to miss that once, however, Mr. Lemon is recovering rapidly, although his teeth are irrevocably lost.

One of Miss Almond's most impressive scenes occurs when she appears running full tilt across the stage, takes a flying leap and lands squarely on the stomach of the second lead, How A. Tappin, who thrown her in a double back flip to Mr. Lemon who catches her, ties her into a neat granny knot and rolls her off stage. Pity, Mr. Lemon missed also.

Mr. Tappin's chief accomplishment lay in his ability to remain in one contorted position for contracted periods of time and to change with split-second timing and a convulsive flop. He also looked very good in leotards.

The most charming part of the program was possibly the musical background. Particularly fine was the overture to the second group. Never has chopsticks been played so well. The triangle player missed his cue once or twice and the cymbalist caught the trombone player's head between the cymbals once, which rather dimmed the tone. However, if the piccolo lar in audiences all around the world ever since they were introduced in Primary.

Might I close with a brief comment from George Jean Bush, whose judicial observations have lighted the world of the arts for the past generation: "Now that you mention it, it is."

BYU Regents Announce Dropping of Basketball

The Brigham Young University Board of Regents announced last night, following a grueling ten-hour debate in which no punches were pulled, that intercollegiate basketball is to be dropped.

The chairman of the board said that the money previously used for this "lowbrow" sort of activity would be diverted to a fund for intensive study of the metabolism of unborn eggplants. It was suggested that part of the lure be used to publicize Dr. Boaz Z. Zanner's new sixteen volume work, "The Puberty of the Pungus." The motion was dropped when it was discovered that Dr. Zanner had abdicated the botany department's prize-tripounding mushroom.

Timbuctu Gridders Invade BYU Camp

Football prospects at Brigham Young University sailed sky-high yesterday with the arrival of seven huge line prospects from Timbuctoo, Africa.

They were brought to BYU by Coach Stan Atkinson under the new scholarship plan which allows each athlete $5,000 a year in spending money.

The players, who are unacquainted with football but have had extensive experience cracking coconuts and swinging from the trees by their feet, average four hundred pounds. Largest of the group is G. A. Argantun, who weighs 582 pounds and is expected to take over Marlon Frebort's spot at tackle.

Coming from the deep jungles around Timbuctoo, all of the boys are members of the tribe known to science as "apuu bori-borillus." Except for flunking Prof. Pull-Son's psychology class, all the football players are quickly adjusting to college life. Two of the hairy creatures are already being considered for next year's proferred men.

Next year's opponents will be Poughkeepsie Normal, BY High, Cambridge, Cow College, Chicago Bears, Bradford Northern rugby team, Waybowl Normal and, of course, Joe Courtwright's Vanishing Moilean Tech crew from Salt Lake City.

Oh My Sacroiliac . . .

Pool Table Shortage Brings Aching Backs to Y Athletes

"Our athletes are being forced to lounge in boxers and the most unimaginable places," J. Edgar Pinball, BYU director of athletics, told 800 members of the Provo Quarterback club yesterday.

"Since Regal's Recreation parlor burned, our athletes have been in a dire state," he said. "More than thirty of our boys lost their beds when those pool tables burned. They still wander by the burnt ashes with tears in their eyes."

"Besides those sleeping on the

The chairman told reporters that the move also brought other advantages to the school. "Now," he said, "the bleachers can be taken down and ROTC cadets will be able to drill three times a week instead of the usual once."

Board Comments

Other board members also had vital and significant things to say about the proposal. M. A. Ginnit, one of the board members who voted against the proposal, was quoted as expressing the following sentiment: "0.6% 1lb $ 1%4lb1lb $10%." Another opponent of the bill exclaimed "but what about junior's scholarship?" When pressed for comment, the distinguished Dr. Malgatroty D. Malgatroty uttered the following timeless statement: "Tm Ured."

The athletic department was swarmed by reporters from all parts of the nation. The only thing that they could get out of athletic director J. Edgar Pinball as they dragged him from the top of the Umpire's Stand Building was some unintelligible gibberish about his widowed mother and seventeen kids. Pinball said (and we quote): "Groat" as he prepared his apologetic letter to the Athletic Board for Homeless Coaches. Basketball coach Stanislaus Watisky was in a bit of a snafu when he was called to his office to the University of Utah to accept a position as assistant coach. Coach Watisky, who was in the Chronicle, Slob Skunkler, another member of the basketball staff, said "I guess I'll have to go back to work."

Fieldhouse in Mithallus
It was not decided for sure what is to be done with the fieldhouse. Some board members favored using it for a Siamese cat dance salon, but most favored the idea of converting it into a theatre, which would open with a two-year run of "Battleships Down the Nile." It will be moved on the third floor of the Brimball building until further notice.

The announcement also caused quite a furor among the players. All hoopers were told to land in their suits and convertibles tomorrow morning.

ROUGH READY—and renowned grapplers Earthquake Ernie Pilkinson and Gargle S.

(Terrible Tommie) Smartin will clash tonight in a Family Life Institute benefit.

Fight Card Promises Big Grudge Match

Wrestling star "Earthquake Ernie" Pilkinson, the pride of the Ichalotta Indians, will meet Gargle S. Smartin tomorrow night in a grudge match at the BYU fieldhouse.

"Earthquake Earnest" returned recently after a successful mat tour of the East, where he picked up one $20,000,000 gate. He dropped a close match in Salt Lake City last week, to J. "Smacking" Lee, but Pilkinson's trainer, Las Vegas Scayler is reportedly appealing the decision to a higher wrestling tribunal.

Both men have been training for this match since "Gargle S." accused Pilkinson of using over-long speches to lure students away from his 11 a.m. bacteriology class.

"Gargle S." has behind him a long string of mat victories.

Heading the list of his victims are Squire Leone (formerly Bar on Leone, but who was demoted on losing to Smartin), Two-Ton Tony Galenta, and Babe Didrickson. He was overcome by fumes, however, when wrestling Georgeous George.

Pilkinson, too, has a long list of ring victories, principally over Washington Democrats and Indian chiefs.

Pilkinson is expected to weigh in at 174 pounds if he can continue his diet of soufflé of gnaf's kidney on the half shell.

Smartin, his weight up due to a strenuous beefsteak ergy last week, will weigh in at 102½ pounds. "But it's all muscle," he proudly says.

More than capacity crowds are expected for the match. Admission will be by 13 Highland milk cartons and one "Keep Cool with Coolidge" button.

Military Manuever Masked Masked Military Manuever

The annual Military Ball remained shrouded in secrecy today following an announcement that the night of May 8, date of the operation, may be shrouded in fog.

All group commanders were called into a special meeting this afternoon by Col. Stessy E. Jay, Pat. Col. Joy is reported to have stated: "Gentlemen, some of you may not return." (This differs somewhat from the opinion held by the administration concerning the dance operational procedure however, Col. Jay has had experience with this sort of thing.) Present plans call for the Chevrolet, Ford and other somewhat obsolete, World War II models to leave in groups of ten, proceed to the target area, drop their loads, pick up their loads (which, in the words of Col. Wilcoxswain "will be something utterly untried in the realm of military aviation), and return home in groups of ten.

All units will be fully manned, and crews will be briefed before the operation. Major Summons expressed concern that some crew members become victims of combat fatigue during the course of the operation, but formation will be maintained at all times and no emergency landings will be permitted—even for refueling.

All AFROTC staff members emphasized the danger of forced landings in the wild territory between here and the target area, especially near Passion Plate, stating that some crew members might be lost again due to combat fatigue and the results of the landing. New approved uniforms will be issued, however, and if worn properly this hazard will be minimized, concluded Col. Jay.

Booglers Return From Successful Nation-wide Tour

Brigham Young University's contribution to the cultural lives of the American people, the Boogler's Combo (hill billy quintet), returned to Provo yesterday after an exhausting nation-wide tour. Dr. Johnny Folladay, head of the music department, said that the combo played to capacity audiences in 60 cities during their three-month tour. While in New York, the combo's BYU musical organization packed out Carnegie Hall on a Friday night, so their Saturday night performance was shifted to Madison Square Garden. "And ringside seats sold for $50 each," Dr. Folladay said.

The Boogler's also participated in some extra-curricular activities between concerts, and initial reports indicated that 449 female students will register at BYU next quarter.

Response to this year's Boogler tour was so great that University officials are contemplating sending the combo to Kanab next year, in hopes of proselytizing new students from that area.

Party Organ Staff Axed By High-Ups

Flash! According to a release received here late last nite, the threatened purge of the GOONIVERSE staff has begun in earnest.

The axe, wielded by No. 1 Hero Roly Jackditch, editor-in-chief, already has slashed down upon many unsuspecting authors, from Smoolituro sub-editors to lowly Salt Mine reporters.

An Iron Curtain secrecy fell over the area as Comrade Jackditch craftily cleaned house in the Kramlin, GOONIVERSE quarters. DDT (the state's ersatz Gestapo) accomplished most of the disinfesting.

First of the reactionaries to feel the bludgeoning blade was Artistic Karcky, who opened his voluminous, capitalistic jaw once too often in extolling the merits of the present Republican regime. Furthermore, he was caught red-handed by DDT manipulating a bourgeois type-writer.

Runner-up in the glorious purification program was rabid right-winger Dicki Ovesov, the most non-conforming of Communists. He was speedily "liquidated" for his foul, subversive plots in "Legislative Screaming."

As for die-in-the-red Heroine Lucy Markkiam, her term of service to the state was cut short. When indicted for disseminating unauthorized propaganda, she had but this to say, "Lies, lies, all I hear is glorious lies."

All three purges duly confessed.

Meanwhile, several other journalistic protégés turned up missing (lucky us). Grapevine intelligence located the lost sheep with in the new, electric wire enclosure in the health center. Evidently, they had been volunteered for service as guinea pigs in the health center's next five-year plan.

Truce negotiations, conducted by the meager handful of fellow travelers remaining, were to no avail. Jackditch was determined. So, for good measure, a pound of flesh was exacted from the groveling creatures to assure a continuation of their undying loyalty.
